Full Color

The logo should be CMYK (.eps files) for all print, and RGB (.png files) for all digital. There are 3 variations in which the logo can appear - Icon, Portrait, and Landscape. The wordmark 'SCRIV' must always include the icon logo.

Reverse, Grey, and B&W

- The reverse logo should only be used when the background color is too dark and black text is not visible.
- The grey logo should only be used when color printing is not available. Do not use the color logo and allow the computer settings to convert to greyscale.
- The black and white color logo should only be used when solely 1 solid color can be outputted. It is not a standard option for the brand (Only when greyscale or full color is not an option).

Proper Use of the Brand

The logo should be CMYK (.eps files) for all print, and RGB (.png files) for all digital. There are 3 variations in which the logo can appear - Icon, Portrait, and Landscape. The wordmark 'SCRIV' must always include the icon logo.

Consistency is critical when using the SCRIV logo.

1. Do not shrink or stretch the logo.
2. Do not add effects to the logo, such as a drop shadow or outlines.
3. Do not reproduce the logo at an angle.
4. Do not alter the relationship of the icon and the type.
5. Do not alter the relationship of any of the letters in the logo.
6. Do not incorporate the logo as part of a sentence.
7. Do ensure you are using the correct version of the logo that has been provided.
8. Do not use the logo in any color other than the colors provided.
9. Only place the logo on appropriate background colors. Do not place it on colors that clash with the logos or colors that are too similar to the logo.
10. If placing the logo over a photo, ensure that the logo is readable and stands out.
11. Do ensure that there enough negative space around the logo.
12. Do make sure you are using the appropriate logo for the appropriate use:
 - The "rev" (reverse) logo should be used on darker backgrounds only.
 - The "grey" logo should be used when printing will be only in greyscale.
 - The "por" (portrait) logo should be used whenever possible, if there is enough room around the logo.
 - The "ldsp" (landscape) logo should be used when the logo is being used in a wide, short space.
